The Charlotte people are surely carrying out their promise and giving a royal welcome to the persons attending the convention.

We are glad to see the Georgia Democrats are too true to their party to endorse Tom Watson as its candidate for Vice President.

My! How many of the attendants on the Charlotte convention will limp into their homes about tomorrow suffering with a severe attack of that tired feeling.

Georgia Democrats' opposition to Bryan's nomination comes too late to do any good as far as any influence it might have on Democratic conventions in other States.

It's in order for Hoke Smith to make a public explanation of the action of the Georgia Democratic convention in regard to the Presidential nomination.

Mr. Fairbanks can cool himself off with a mint julip or a sherry cobbler these hot days without any fear of such action having any bad effect on his political prospects.

While on Yale baseball grounds Mr. Taft must have forgotten that he was the nominee of a great party for the highest office of the Nation and thought for awhile that he was one of the boys.

Some folks were so eager for news from the Charlotte convention that they began calling on this office as early as Tuesday night to know who had been nominated for Governor. That's no joke, but as true as Holy Writ.

As soon as the election is over the Republican leaders will begin explaining why it will be impossible to hold an extra session of Congress next spring for the purpose of revising the present tariff laws. Mark the prediction.

If you feel like complaining about the heat here just read the following official maximum registers of the thermometer for the 24 hours ending at 8 o'clock yesterday morning: Florence 91, Goldsboro 98, Greensboro 94, Newbern 91, Raleigh 92, Weldon 96—these figures against 87 for our city. This will help you cool off.

What we do not understand is this: Mr. Bryan says Mr. Roosevelt swiped all his political tenets, especially the ones most recently developed; that Mr. Roosevelt wrote the Republican platform, which the convention adopted with very little change, and yet Mr. Bryan rushes into print with a scathing criticism of the document. Isn't that a little bit curious?

Wilson, N. C., June 24.—The Sailors this afternoon defeated Wilson again making four out of the six games played. The Tobacconists were fairly defeated by a score of what should have been three to five, but owing to the rank decision by Umpire Henderson, the game stood when finished 5 to 2. It was the rottenest game ever umpired on any diamond. The Tobacconists admit that they were outplayed by the Sailors, who played clean snappy ball. While in our midst the Sailors have played the game as she is writ and that is what Wilsonians love; let the laurels go where they may.

Slugging Match at Goldsboro.

Goldsboro, N. C., June 24.—Raleigh got the best of a slugging match here today surprising the local fans to the tune of 9 to 6 and capturing two out of the three games played here. Two double plays and the fielding of Dawson and the heavy batting of Warren and Farmer were the features for Raleigh while the batting of Bennett and work of Nagle on short were Goldsboro's features. Some Local Pick-ups.

Bud Abernathy has been released by the Sailors. He could not deliver the goods.

With the Newbern team strengthened, the game at the park this afternoon will be well worth while.

It was good to see Rath's name in the line-up of the team yesterday. It was reported that he was very ill with fever in a hospital at Wilson.

Capt. "Smithey" was out of the game only for a few innings at Wilson. He encountered some of those Wilson spikes in putting out a player on third base, but will be in the game this afternoon.

The Wilmington team got in last night at 11 o'clock on a freight train. They did not come in on the brakerods for the patronage at Wilson was very good and they have the backing of Wilmington for Pullman cars. They came in for a good night's rest before the battle with Newbern today.

MASONS HAD FINE OUTING

Observance of Saint John's Day in Every Way a Perfect Success. Joint Installation of Officers and Address.

More than three hundred enthusiastic Masons, members of their families and friends yesterday joined with the fraternity at Southport and Fort Caswell in a most elaborate and fitting celebration of St. John's Day, which was featured by a joint installation of the officers of all the lodges, an address by the Rev. A. D. McClure, D. D., of this city, and other interesting exercises.

The observance took place in the beautiful oak grove in Franklin Square at Southport and the Wilmington party went down on the steamer Wilmington, under charter, at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, returning last evening at 7 o'clock, after a day of infinite pleasure. Upon arrival of the steamer at Southport the Masons marched to the Masonic Hall where the respective lodges were opened in due form and then the line of march, headed by the Fort Caswell Band, which discoursed inspiring music during the exercises, was taken up to the grounds.

It was much regretted that on account of illness Past Grand Master C. H. Robinson could not be present as installing officer as he had expected, his place being taken by Senior Grand Warden W. B. McKoy, of Wilmington, with Dr. D. I. Watson, of Pythagoras Ldge, Southport, as Deputy Grand Marshal. The installation of the officers was a most impressive and inspiring ceremony, the work being carried out perfectly. A list of the officers installed was given in yesterday's paper. Among the guests of honor were Maj. Herman Schumm, in command of the post, and Captain S. H. Mould, of Fort Caswell, the first named being a 32nd degree Mason and a gentleman of most engaging personality. Other members of the army post and Dr. Sprague, in charge of the Cape Fear Quarantine, of Pythagoras lodge, were also present

The opening feature of the programme was a selection by a male quartette composed of Messrs. Brooke French, Herbert K. Holden, Jas. S. Williams and Charles McMillen. Following the installation ceremonies Dr. McClure delivered an address upon Masonry from the standpoint of the public, commending the tenets of the order and referring to the beautiful lessons taught in its ritualistic work. He was given the closest attention and all his hearers were charmed with the address.

Following the exercises of installation, the address and the music by the quartette and the band, the large audience was dismissed with a benediction and an elegant basket picnic was enjoyed under the spreading limbs of the great oaks. After some time spent in delightful social intercourse and sight-seeing about the pretty little city of Southport, the visitors returned to the city, delighted with the day and the splendid entertainment which they received.

FOURTH OF JULY REGATTA

Committee Appointed to Have in Charge Carolina Yacht Club Races.

A meeting of the Governing Board of the Carolina Yacht Club was held yesterday, at which plans for the annual Fourth of July regatta over the club course at Wrightsville Beach, were quite enthusiastically discussed by those present. It was decided to have the races as usual and for the purpose of making all the necessary arrangements for same, the following regatta committee was appointed, viz: Messrs. W. D. MacMillan, Jr., B. H. Bridgers, and H. M. Chase. They will have in charge all arrangements for the regatta and entries should be made through them. There are several fast yachts in the fleet as at present constituted and it is hoped that the fleet captains will now "get busy" and see to it that this time-honored event is made a perfect success. The venerable club was never in better condition physically or financially and interest in the one annual event should not be allowed to abate.

Alderman O'Brien to Erect Residence.

A building permit was issued yesterday from the office of City Inspector John J. Furlong for the erection of a modern residence for Alderman Martin O'Brien, on Third street, between Red Cross and Campbell. The handsome new residence will be built at an estimated cost of $2,000 by Contractor C. C. Parker.

ON TIRIAL FOR LIFE

Sam Glover, Colored, Charged in Superior Court With Murder of Another Negro.

Grand Jury Returned Another True Bill For Capital Felony—Bolton and Wells to Be Arraigned for Hearing Tomorrow.

All of yesterday's session of the Superior Court was taken up with the trial of Sam Glover, colored, charged with the murder of another negro, Albert Jones, in Love's alley, in the northern part of the city on the 9th of last September. When court took a recess for the day at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, the State had not quite completed its testimony and the trial will be resumed this morning at 9 o'clock. It is hardly expected that the case will get to the jury before this afternoon.

It will be recalled that Glover and Jones had some words at their work at the Angola lumber mill where both were employed and that Glover claimed that Jones had made at him with an axe. Late in the evening when the two men went home, they renewed the difficulty and Glover went in his house, secured a pistol and fired upon Jones, who ran down the alley and fell, twice wounded. A crowd collected over the wounded man and after Glover had put up his pistol, he came out of his house, admitted to the crowd that he had shot the fallen man and is alleged to have applied a vile epithet to him and expressed the hope that he had killed him. At this the wounded man is alleged to have jumped up from where he lay on the ground and chased Glover up the alley and under his house, firing upon him twice. One of the bullets took effect in Glover's back or shoulder and he was arrested and sent with his victim to the hospital. Glover recovered, but Jones died in the hospital and the first named was committed to jail without bond by a coroner's jury of inquest which investigated the killing.

At the trial Glover is represented by L. Clayton Grant and Jos. W. Little, Esqs., and Solicitor Duffy is being assisted with the prosecution by F. W. Bonitz, Esq. Glover is a yellow negro of slight build, betrays some nervous excitement in the court room, but takes a deep interest in the testimony of witnesses and claims that he acted in self defense.

When court convened yesterday morning Jurors C. D. Gore, S. T. Keyes and E. P. H. Strunck were fined for not being present but were later excused when they stated that their understanding was that court would convene at 9:30 o'clock instead of 9 o'clock. Veniremen W. G. Sale and W. S. Register were fined $80 for non-attendance, having rendered no excuse when court took a recess for the day.

It was nearly 1 o'clock in the afternoon before a jury was finally selected to pass upon the issue of life and death between Glover and the Commonwealth. The sheriff returned 71 of the 100 veniremen as summoned and all of these with nine regular jurors were exhausted before the panel was complete. Eleven men were in the box and an additional ten were picked up by officers on the street from whom the twelfth juror was finally chosen. The jury as finally empanelled is composed as follows: Virginius Hall, J. C. McEachin, Martin VanOesen, T. F. McAllister, D. F. Barnes, A. D. Wessell, Jr., L. G. Bass, W. H. Turley, John D. Bowen, J. D. Edwards, G. C. Bordeaux and W. R. Hall.

Half a dozen or more witnesses had testified in the case when a recess was taken for the day. These were Dr. C. D. Bell, the coroner, who testified as to the wounds, etc.; Dr. R. B. Slocum, surgeon in charge of the hospital; Former Policeman H. H. Woebse, near whose store the shooting took place; Thomas Croom, a collector, who was in the vicinity at the time; Dock Suggs, a resident of the alley who witnessed the shooting; Bella Wallace, a colored woman who witnessed the shooting, and Sarah Quince, a good, old, before-the-war colored woman, who insisted on standing up when she testified, stating to Attorney Bonitz, who asked her to be seated, that she always stood when talking to "de white folks." They all told practically the same story of the tragedy, the effort of the State being to show premeditation and the cross-examination being intended to show that there was much confusion in the vicinity at the time and that there was a hill or elevation in the alley which prevented witnesses from seeing clearly what took place in another end.

The State will likely conclude its testimony with the evidence of Mr. Cleveland Carr, who saw the shooting, Special Policeman W. B. Brown, who made the arrest, and one or two other colored women who claim to know something of the tragedy.

When a recess for the day was taken Judge Peebles placed Deputy Sheriff W. H. Cox in charge of the jury with the usual instructions that they be not allowed to separate and that they do not discuss the case nor read the newspapers until they have delivered their verdict. Members of the jury were given dinner and a walk about the city during the afternoon.

The grand jury came into court in a body yesterday and returned a true bill for burglary against the negro escaped convict Eugene Jackson, who broke into the house of a colored family and stole a suit of clothes to replace his stripes while the officers were looking for him a few weeks ago. This adds another capital felony to the docket if the Solicitor insists upon a verdict in the first degree.

If the Glover trial is completed today the capital charges against Tom Wells and Robert Bolton, negroes charged with a criminal assault upon Laura Hill, colored, will be taken up tomorrow morning. The negroes are represented by L. Clayton Grant, Esq.

Annual Mill-End Sale begins Saturday at 9 o'clock at Rehder's. **

MAKE FULL INVESTIGATION

Coroner's Jury Empanelled Yesterday to Inquire Into Death of A. F. Trunnel, Who Died in Hospital Yesterday.

A coroner's jury of inquest was yesterday empanelled to make a full investigation of the circumstances surrounding the fatal wounding of Albert F. Trunnel, 33 years of age, the young white man who died in the James Walker Memorial Hospital yesterday morning of lockjaw brought on by severe knife slashes across the face.

On account of the difficulty of securing witnesses who can throw any light upon the identity of the party or parties who made the assault upon the young man, the coroner's jury after viewing the remains at the funeral parlors of Mr. W. E. Yopp yesterday morning, took a recess at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock by which time every available clue will be followed in the effort to identify the guilty party or parties.

The remains of the young man, after being prepared for burial, were taken to the Red Men's Home on North Front street, where they remained until afternoon when they were taken on the steamer Wilmington to Southport, the former home of the deceased, for interment. A committee of eight from the Red Men, of which the deceased was a member, accompanied the remains to Southport where the funeral and interment will take place today with the honors of the Red Men, Watcoosa Tribe No. 66, of Fort Caswell, attending in a body.

The jury empanelled yesterday to inquire into the circumstances of the fatal wounding of the young man is composed as follows: J. O. Brown, chairman; W. E. Merritt, secretary; J. M. Branch, J. W. Hansley, W. M. Cherry and T. G. Landen. The only witness thus far secured and who seems to know anything at all about the affair is young Mr. G. T. Hansley, who was in company with Trunnel on the night of the cutting. He says that they were at a lemonade stand on Market street, some little distance from the carnival grounds, early in the night, and Trunnel had some words with some negroes. The trouble was soon quieted by Hansley and the two started on home, walking over to Princess street to take the car. When nearly in front of the old Eastern Star Hall, Mr. Hansley said that they were set upon by negroes, who had evidently followed them and waited a favorable opportunity of making the assault. When the negroes made the attack upon the white men, he says, that they used a vile epithet, stating that they had come to "have it out with them," at once proceeding to slash them both with knives. Mr. Hansley was cut in the shoulder and beaten in the face, while Mr. Trunnel was cut across the face from forehead to cheek. Mr. Hansley has no idea who the negroes were and other witnesses are now being sought, who can throw some light on the identity of them.

Mrs. Trunnel, wife of the deceased, was with her husband when the end came and returned with the remains to Southport yesterday. Mr. Trunnel was formerly regularly enlisted in the army at Fort Caswell and came to Wilmington some time ago to engage in his trade in the Atlantic Coast Line shops. The pall-bearers from the Red Men's Home to the station yesterday afternoon were Messrs. J. F. Meloche, E. C. Strader, T. K. Curtis, J. B. Pritchard, W. B. Thomas and Frank Green.

Back From Great Meeting.

Jos. W. Litle, Esq., returned yesterday from Louisville, Ky., where with Mr. W. M. Cumming, of this city, and other delegates to the number of about twenty from North Carolina, he attended the International Sunday School Convention. There were more than 500 delegates from the United States and other countries and Mr. Little speaks in most enthusiastic terms of the great meeting. The convention listened with much interest and the closest attention to a number of addresses from some of the ablest speakers in the world, specialists in Sunday School work. Mr. Cumming will return to the city later, Mr. Little having been called home on account of cases which he has for trial at the present term of Superior Court.

STATE CONVENTION

First Ballot in Titanic Struggle For Gubernatorial Nomination After Midnight.

AMID WILDEST SCENES

Great Gathering of North Carolina Democrats in Charlotte—Out All Night in Fruitness Balloting. The Story.

(By Associated Press.)

Charlotte, N. C., June 25.—At midnight, though the State Democratic Convention has been in session twelve hours, the real fight, which is on the nomination of a gubernatorial candidate, had not come.

The convention was caled to order at noon by State Chairman Hugh G. Chatham. Former Governor Thomas J. Jarvis was made temporary chairman. Upon taking his seat Chairman Jarvis announced officially to the convention the death of former President Grover Cleveland and upon motion the convention, after adopting, with bowed heads, touching resolutions upon the death of Mr. Cleveland, took an immediate adjournment until 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Upon re-assembling, W. P. Parsons, of Richmond county, was named as permanent chairman and the nomination of gubernatorial candidates was begun. C. W. Tillett, of Charlotte, placed in nomination Congressman W. W. Kitchin; Former Governor C. B. Aycock nominated Locke Craig and Thomas W. Bickett, of Louisburg, nominated Colonel Ashley Horne. It was midnight before the nominating speeches were closed and the balloting began.

At 1 o'clock this morning the first ballot had been completed amid the wildest scenes in the convention hall. The result was as follows: Kitchin 375.80, Craig 334.88, and Horne 147.22.

It looks now like a deadlock and that there will certainly be no nomination until the day session.

Second Ballot—(2:30 A. M.) Kitchin 377.54, Craig 332.02, Horne 147.44.

An Earlier Story.

Charlotte, N. C., June 24.—Undoubtedly the most remarkable display of cheering, yelling, sustained noise and blowing of horns and the creation of every conceivable kind of racket, was that which marked the first day of the Democratic State Convention in Charlotte on the opening day, and at 8 o'clock tonight only two of the candidates, Kitchin and Horne, had been nominated and with an adjournment to 9:30 for a recess of one hour and thirty minutes, leaves little chance of balloting tonight unless several ballots are taken shortly before midnight.

There is little talk of the all-night session. Experienced men from all parts of the State say that they never witnessed such an unusual and long drawn spasm of noise-making, and this demonstration in no spirit of ill-feeling, but apparently an overflow of animal spirits in the audience and among the delegations in particular.

Ex-Gov. Jarvis, named as temporary chairman, spoke about 20 minutes while the unending and terrible shouts took up nearly twice that time.

The gavel was worn white on both ends before Secretary A. J. Field could get even the semblance of quiet in calling the vast audience to order, and State Chairman Hugh Chatham could attempt to make a brief address, and name the temporary chairman, ex Governor Jarvis, of 72 years, still retaining his old-time vigor and ability for speaking.

After an invocation by Elder P. D. Gold, who opened a State convention here just half a century ago, Chairman Chatham briefly related his thanks to the Democracy of the State for the honor conferred upon him, adding that with this convention his term of office would cease.

Ex-Governor Jarvis surprised his friends by his thunderous tones, and steady nerve in the face of the unending shouts of Hurrah for Craig! Hurrah for Kitchin!' and Hurrah for Horne! and other cries and blowing of horns that made speech impossible a great part of the time. Often the speakers would stand for minutes realizing that there was no power by which the delegations and the galleries could be quieted, while the unoffensive character of the noise gave no cause or suggestion of insult.

Two demonstrations, one by Kitchin and one by Craig followers, during the first session consumed 35 minutes. First the Kitchin men attempted a demonstration and over 300 voices led the furious racket, while twice that number of visitors and small boys were in the large auditorium. This continued with waving flags and men yelling and crying Kitchin with all the lung power nature had bestowed upon them. Roll after roll of noise went up, and a band in the building by striking up medleys, only increased the pandemonium.

The band was drowned out and the leader rapped for silence. Men on the stage rapped with energy as if pounding stone, and held up their hands, but nothing availed; then the Craig men, largely from the mountains, took up the call "Craig!"

GROVER CLEVELAND.

In the death of Grover Cleveland this country has lost one of her greatest men of the present generation. He was a statesman and not a politician. He possessed two characteristics which distinguish the statesman from the politician—honesty in politics and the courage to act on his convictions. These are two qualities which—when combined with a big brain and bright intellect—go to make the statehman, but they prevent a man becoming a successful politician.

These qualities were largely developed in Mr. Cleveland . He was no politician in the ordinary sense of the word—no reed that would bend to every political wind that blew from any quarter, but the sturdy oak that stood erect against the blast until over come by its force, knowing always that he was right and unwilling to yield, against his convictions as to what was best for the country, to the temporary blast of misguiled popular sentiment. Standing firm and strong in his conviction that he has in the right, he preferred to go down before the storm of opposition in his own party, to yielding to public clamor led by demagogues and ignorant politicians seeking only their own advancement.

Mr. Cleveland looked into the future and saw what the country needed to escape the breakers that were ahead and on which his party was blindly rushing. His party repudiated him because he would not yield. Time will show, as it has already begun to to do, that he was right; that had the Democratic party followed his lead that party and the whole country would today be in far better condition than at present, and in years to come those persons who look back and read correctly the history of this republic in the latter days of the nineteenth century will clearly see what a mistake Mr. Cleveland's party made in repudiating him as its leader. History will vindicate if his party did repudiate him and will show the great, the unpardonable error that party made in such repudiation. The time will come when the whole country will come to mourn his political demise as greatly as his natural death.

STATEMENT WITHOUT FOUNDATION.

In the Wilson Times of Tuesday we find the following article under the heading, "Wilmington Hospitality:"

"The Wilson Baseball Club received at Wilmington last week the most discourteous reception ever given our club in its many years of baseball. Even on the grounds ample police protection was not to be obtained and the umpire was intimidated in all possible ways. While this does not reflect on Wilson, yet it hurts the sport. Wilson will give Wilmington here the square deal always in the past given visiting ball players."

We do not reproduce the scandalous article for the purpose of making a denial or explanation, for neither is necessary as everyone who knows anything about the matter knows that the Wilson club met no discourteous treatment from the citizens of Wilmington; that at no time "even on the grounds" or, as the quoted expression implies, elsewhere, was there any shadow of necessity for police protection for the members of the Wilson club. There was kicking against the rotten decisions of the umpire, who, by the way, has been replaced by another since he made such an exhibition of his incompetency or favoritism while umpiring that game. Wilson had won every game she had played up to the time she tackled Wilmington. Here she lost two out of the three. That being so we can understand her people's soreness, but that is no excuse for unfounded charges of grossly discourteous treatment by Wilmington people of those who are their guests.

A POLITICAL MISTAKE.

"If the friends of the editor of this paper have the remotest desire to honor him with office, please don't put him off with being chairman of the county executive committee. Give him a seat in front of the 'pie counter' if you would please him, something that pays and pays well too."—Wadesboro Ansonian.

Now there is a young man and embyo politician who is honest—we are afraid too honest to succeed as a politician. To succeed in that line he should hede his personal desires and attempt to fool the people into the idea that his only reason for allowing himself to be forced into office is for the purpose of benefitting the clean people who seem so anxious for him to represent them in some office or another and who are so inconsiderate as to insist on his making sacrifice of his private interests in order to promote theirs. Has not the editor of the Ansonian seen scores of Democrats rushing over the State for months, making speeches, writing letters and employing paid agents to induce the people to let them alone and not insist that they shall make the personal sacrifice accepting public office forced upon them? Amidst all this he comes out with the startling announcement that he wants office and wants one that w'll pay well. He will stand no chance with the people for he has failed to compliment them by an attempt to fool them.

NO CHOICE FOR RUNNING MATE.

"One day they say 'Mr. Bryan favors this man' for Vice President. The next day it is another he favors. The truth is Mr. Bryan has no favorite and will have none.—News and Observer.

"Mr. Bryan has no favorite." Of course not. The second man on the Presidential ticket is generally chosen with an eye to increasing the strength of the ticket. In Mr. Bryan's opinion there being nothing necessary to be done to add strength to a ticket headed with his name, it is therefore, a matter of indifference to him who is put second by the Democratic convention. All the same; if Mr. Bryan is nominated by the big majority his friends claim for him he will name the man who will be put on the ticket with him, will dictate the platform and completely dominate the convention. What he will do at the polls is another question.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—James Wilson, 88 years of age, who died in Delaware, Ohio, last Saturday was the last of the famous group of nine whose Republican votes in 1861 started the movement that preserved Western Virginia to the Union and brought about the creation of a new State. He was also one of the few remaining members of the Chicago convention which nominated Abraham Lincoln in that year.—Newbern Sun.

—Taft has sat on the box seat of the Roosevelt wagon ever since he became Secretary of War and unquestionably to the President does he owe his nomination. The "Big Republicans" did not want him. How thoroughly Mr. Roosevelt dominates his party, despite the enmity of these selfsamed "Big Republicans"—the Cannons, Forakers, etc., was shown in the practical unanimity of the Chicago convention for Taft when the first roll call was taken.—Winston Journal.

—It is apparent thus early that the action of the Chicago convention is not pleasing to the Republican party at large by any means. The platform is being picked to pieces and the nomination of Sherman for Vice President is not satisfactory by any means. His selection let the cat out of the bag. The advantage the Republicans have, however, is that they discover their weakness very soon and at once set about to remedy it.—Greensboro Record.

—The new American Ambassador to Berlin, Dr. D. J. Hill, has not only arrived at Berlin without occasioning any undue flutter in the exclusive social circles of the German Capital, but he has been received in audience by Emperor William, who treated him most cordially. These events put an end to all the loose talk about the probability of the stay of Dr. Hill in Berlin being made unpleasant because he lacks the private means to live in the style affected by his predecessor in office, the Hon. Charlamagne Tower.—New Orleans Picayune.

—All newspapers and individuals under the bloodhound delusion will hereby take notice that an escaping convict from a Mecklenburg county camp the other day made friends with two of these amiable quadrupeds and, cordial regard springing up on both sides, continued his fight in their company. At last accounts the trio were still at large. Those newspapers and individuals interested in the question of muching dogs might also take notice. Occasions like that just mentioned appear to be the only ones upon which successful muching of an aggressively inclined dog ever takes place in real life.—Charoltte Observer.

—In a signed article to appear this week, extracts from which are given to the daily press in advance. Judge Taft expresses himself as to the presidency, and indicates in general terms his own line in the office in case of his election. It is fortunate for the country that the Republican candidate has played so prominent a part in molding the policies to which his party is committed, and which if elected he must carry forward, and fortunate for him that he has had four years of intimate observation of the workings of an office the duties of which are exacting to the last degree. Judge Taft in the White House therefore will be no stranger dazzled by new and strong lights, but one who knows his way around, and is familiar with the things that will come to his attention. In a word, he should from the start show the facility of an old hand at the bellows.—Washington Star.

—Can Mr. Bryan carry the border states that voted for him in 1900? Kentucky gave him 8,00 majority, and at the last state election went Republican. Can he arouse the enthusiasm which he aroused in 1896 and in 1900? In both these campaigns he attracted a large vote from the radical element of the Republican party. Roosevelt will hold that vote for Taft, who impersonates Roosevelt before the people. The campaign fund raised to beat Bryan in 1908, it is believed, will remain as liberal as those of the former campaigns, and both wings of the Republican party will flop together to beat him. Mr. Bryan is a man who has captured the hearts and the imaginations of millions of his fellow-countrymen. His eloquence, his ability, the purity and correctness of his life have endeared him to the masses of his party. But the political principles that he maintains—principles which are strange to many old-time Democrats—May not appeal sufficiently to the Democratic voters to give him the full party vote, without which there is no chance of election. This is a question which the Democratic party, its leaders and delegates to the Denver convention, should consider before the nomination is made. —Raleigh Times.

This morning it had risen to the surface in the place where it was said to have gone down. Owing to the depth of the water no one was able to reach the bottom Sunday.

S. C. Winner, Jeweler, Front St., Wilmington, N. C., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills were used in my family with the best of results. My wife complained a great deal of pains in her back and loins. She was also annoyed by the too frequent action of the kidneys. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I decided to have her try them and procured a box at Robert R. Belamy's drug store. Since using them she has not complained of backache and the kidney difficulty has disappeared. It is a pleasure to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

THE BASEBALL CURVE

An Old Timer's Story of the Game That First Saw It.

IT WAS USED BY AN AMATEUR

According to This Old Professional Player, Arthur Cummings Was the Young Pitcher Who Was the Originator of the In and Out Shoots.

Speaking about the early history of baseball the other day, an old time professional player said there were many things not known generally.

"There is, for instance, the matter of curve pitching. Who pitched the first curved ball? No; don't name any of the men that won pennants and got $10,000 a year. The pioneer wasn't a professional, but an amateur—that is, he was an amateur until his curves made him famous.

"His name was Arthur Cummings, and he was a New York boy, a tall, thin young fellow with hair as blond as a chorus girl's. How he came to discover curve pitching I don't know, but it was generally believed afterward that he hit on it by accident. He tried it out for the first time in 1867 in a game between two scrub teams in Washington.

"The famous Excelsior club of New York was then visiting Washington as the guest of the old National club, and the two played a series of games on the old White lot. Toward the end of the series some one suggested that the young New Yorkers who had come over with the Excelsiors make up a scrub nine and play a nine of Washington boys as a sort of comic interlude.

"The suggestion was adopted, and the New York nine consisted of four or five Excelsior substitutes and a number of other young fellows, among them Arthur Cummings. The Washington nine was made up in the main of players belonging to the Junior Nationals, the crack amateur team of Washington.

"Cummings was a rising young pitcher, but no one thought that there was anything remarkable about him, and the Junior Nationals prepared to knock him out of the box. But when the first batsman fanned out the Washingtonians began to look surprised.

"'It's the darndest thing I ever saw,' said this batsman. 'I struck right out at all three balls, and every one of them seemed to jump aside just as it got near the plate. One jumped outward, another inward, and the third seemed to rise. Maybe I'm beginning to see things.'

"It puzzled Jewell, the catcher, too, not to speak of Al Mills, the umpire. Jewell caught all of the balls because it was then the custom for the catcher to stand far back and catch on the first bounce, but it made him dizzy.

"The second batsman of the Junior Nationals went to the bat and walloped the air three times too. Al Mills came up close to the plate to see what was wrong. It looked to him as if Cummings were wild.

"'Just keep your head there,' he said to the third batsman, 'and you'll get your base on balls.'

"This third batsman had a steady hand, and, sure enough, he got his base on balls. Cummings pitched the ball, and it seemed to be coming straight for the plate, when suddenly, just as it was ten feet or so away, it curved out and missed the plate by a foot. Mills called a ball.

"The next ball came straight on, but the batsman, hoping to hit it and profiting by his experience, swung his bat far out. But, instead of curving out like the last one, it seemed to jump. It crossed the plate on a level with the batsman's eyes.

"That scared him, and he just stood there without making a move until a succession of wild balls sent him to first base. The fourth batsman struck out so easily that it was pathetic.

"Well, sir, Cummings began to get more control over the ball after that first inning, and Mills had to admit that it was coming over the plate; but, except by accident, not a single Junior National batsman could touch it. It jumped; it sank; it wabbled from side to side. Mills rubbed his eyes and wondered how the thing was done. Cummings merely smiled.

"In the fifth inning one of the Nationals by dumb luck landed on the sphere and drove it into the next county. There were two men on bases at the time, and this home run brought them home. That gave the Nationals three runs. So far as I know, they made no other runs in the whole game.

"After it was all over the whole town buzzed about Cummings' queer pitching. As for him, he was as silent as the grave.

"'How do you make the ball curve?' asked a hundred persons.

"'Does it curve?' Cummings would say, innocent-like.

"And then he would shut up and become a clam.

"When he got back to New York he was signed by the champion Athletics and became their star pitcher. Other pitchers watched him and got on to the trick, but it was three years before anybody did it as well as he. During those three years his team kept the championship.

"And that, so far as I know, is the story of the origin of the curve ball."—Baltimore Sun.

The Funny Part.

"Was there anything really humorous about your show?"

"Yes," answered the manager, "the critics said some things about it next day that were really funny."—Washington Star.

N INTERESTING SUIT

Mr. R. N. Sweet, Importer, Asks Damages of Insurance Company.

Complaint was filed yesterday in an interesting suit which has been brought in the Superior Court here by Mr. Robert N. Sweet, the well known importer, against the Insurance Company of North America and Colonel John W. Atkinson agent, the plaintiff being represented by Messrs. Rountree & Carr and the defendants by Messrs. Bellamy & Bellamy.

The compiaint alleges that in November 1903 a cargo of fertilizers, the property of Baugh & Sons of Baltimore, arrived in the schooner Arthur McCardle, a part of same being damaged by storm and insured with the defendants; that the damaged portion was turned over to the defendants, who paid the value of same and the insurance company then, through its agent, on December 4, 1903 bargained and sold to plaintiff 1,295 bags of fertilibers for $518; that the plaintiff gave his note to defendants for 30 days and delivered the goods at the Wilmington Compress & Warehouse Company, who took possession of it, spent two weeks or more in drying it out, buying fertiliber tags, contracting for bags in which to make re-shipment and otherwise preparing to market the fertilizers, much of which was actually sold at a profit by the plaintiff; that after the insurance company had made this contract with the plaintiff, through its agent, it entered upon and took possession of the property, refusing to accept the amount stipulated against the protest of the plaintiff, who was ready and willing to pay the amount so agreed upon. Damages in the sum of $1,823.36 are asked with the costs of the action. The case will be tried at a subsequent civil term of the Superior Court in this county.

FINE SCORES ON THE TRAPS

Stokley Wins Dupont Trophy — Inter-State Tournament Next Month.

Again yesterday excellent scores were made in the regular weekly shoot of the Wilmington Gun Club at the traps near Delgado. Stokley was high gun with 73 out of 75, breaking 24 out of 25 in the first two turns at the targets and 25 straight on the third. Dr. J. H. Dreher was second highest with 70 out of 75, breaking 24 out of 25 in the first round, 25 straight in the second but making only 21 in the third. Other scores were as follows: Harris 64-75, Taylor 61-75, Holmes 39-50, Penny 45-50, Boushee 61-75, Murchison Hardware Company, 16-25 and Jacobi Hardware Company, 19-25.

A feature of the afternoon on the grounds was the conclusion of the shoot for the Dupont trophy, a very handsome picture. This was won by Stokley with 42 out of 50, there having been no further entries yesterday.

Interest is now awakening in Inter-State shoot to be held here July 14th, 15th and 16th. The locals are getting in good shape for the meet and expect to take away some of the prize money. Members of the local club are asked to attend the regular weekly events of the club in order to be prepared to participate in this big shoot.

Turner, which was picked up off the Cape Fear bar by the Tug Blanche, towed into Southport and beached on Battery Island June 18th was towed up the Cape Fear yesterday afternoon at high tide and will remain in port here for repairs. The schooner was bound to Charleston from New York, and the cause of the distress is attributed to heavy seas and northwest gales The schooner is materially damaged and it will be some time before she will be able to proceed.

Sun Eclipse Next Sunday.

An eclipse of the sun which will be partially visible in this section of the country next Sunday, June 28th, will no doubt attract considerable attention. The total eclipse will be observed from Tampa, Florida, to a point a little south of St. Augustine. The time for the beginning of the eclipse at Charleston, S. C., which will practically be the same for this city, is 9:59 A. M., and the eclipse will be over at 12:25 P. M.

"Craig!" and with their stentorian tones, they made a noise that sounded like the passing of a furious storm. They rose on chairs and stood on the floor, to better get the freedom of their mountain-trained lungs, and at the end of 15 or 20 minutes they began to slow up, not from physical but mental satiety. It was then that another attempt was made to carry out the programme and the committee of the ten Congressional Districts were announced, but could scarce be heard by the secretary.

Finally the appearance of ex-Governor Jarvis, and the sight of the aged man, who had been in the public eye for half a century, partially sobered the animated crowd.

Governor Jarvis made an address of half an hour. In the course of his remarks he said:

"The party is not made for the man but the man for the party to carry out the best principles for which the party stands. In the hands of any of the three proposed candidates, Kitchin, Craig or Horne, the State will be safe, thank God. I did not come here to divide, but unite. We are going to have a united party, and when the battle is over, there will be nothing to impede our State from the great work in education, manufacturing and moral growth that she is now attempting."

The convention unanimously adopted resolutions of condolence upon the death of Grover Cleveland and ordered that a message of sympathy be sent to the family of the deceased ex-President. This closed the morning session.

Afternoon Session.

The first session having adjourned until 4:30 out of respect to the memory of the deceased ex-President, the convention reassembled at that hour, but was again largely frustrated by the cheering, and the enthusiasm of the delegations and of the audience, and following the nominations of Mr. Kitchin, by C. W. Tillett, Esq., and Col. Ashley Horne, by Mr. T. W. Bickett, of Louisburg, the convention was compelled to await the exhaustion of the renewed and apparently inexhaustible vehemence of the Kitchin and Craig delegates. The Kitchin men had first turn, and not only was the speaker standing in silence half the time he was nominating Mr. Kitchin, but a moment's pandemonium of the best nature reigned over the vast crowds, and the cheering and waving of flags was all that could be heard.

Horne Men Tooting.

The demonstration of the Horne men was more remarkable still, as each man was provided with from one to three horns, and these were blown by the hundreds as the delegates and friends of the candidate marched about the auditorium. Then men climbed on chairs and seats and made the welkin ring again and again; the millionaire could be seen exploding his lungs next to a farmer of humble life, each endeavoring to outdo the other. Two candidates only were nominated ere the session closed for rest until 9:30 tonight.

No Humor For Resolutions.

A resolution to endorse Bryan, coming from a representative delegation, kept the delegate offering the same on his feet fifteen minutes, and he got no opportunity to go beyond the first two or three sentences. He thought he could get a hearing but failed by reason of the shouting and finally in defeat walked forward and laid his resolution on the secretary's desk unread. Whether this is the general sentiment of the convention as to Mr. Bryan cannot be judged by the incident, on account of the present heated interest in gubernatorial candidates.

The Night Session.

At 9:30 tonight the convention reassembled and Hon. C. B. Aycock put in nomination Locke Craig for Governor making a masterful address. The nominations of Kitchin, Horne and Craig were seconded in addresses of about 20 minutes by Victor S. Bryant, of Durham; State Senator J. T. Ellington, of Johnston, and Congressman Crawford. Interruptions were unnecessarily frequent and almost boisterous while these gentlemen had the floor. The first ballot was taken after midnight. The vote is being very slowly counted.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 24.—The flags on the State house here are at half mast in honor of ex-President Cleveland, whose death was announced this morning. Governor Glenn, who was district attorney under Mr. Cleveland, sent a telegram of condolence to Mrs. Cleveland at Princeton, N. J.

Last night Police Officer Beasley awoke a young white man asleep in Nash square, opposite the union station, and questioned him incidentally. The fellow took fright and ran at top speed, leaving his satchel behind him In it was found a small sum of money, a razor and some clothing. The razor and money have been identified as stolen from The Hart Ward Handware store Saturday night when the store was broken open. Grover Cleveland.

Notable Career of a Forceful American Who Made His Own Way.

Twice Elected President, He Became In His Last Years "The Most Distinguished Private Citizen in the World"—Always Dignified, but Not Wholly Devoid of Humor—With an Iron Courage and Remarkable Self Confidence He Seemed Always Prepared.

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

"THE most distinguished private citizen in the world," said a celebrated Republican ex-senator, introducing Grover Cleveland at the dedication ceremonies of the St. Louis world's fair in 1903.

Nobody disputed the characterization. Mr. Cleveland had spent two full terms in the White House, divided by an interim of private citizenship, and he had survived his retirement for years. He was not like an ordinary ex-president, who retires from one term or from two terms served consecutively. This man had suffered defeat after victory and had won victory after defeat. That record is unique in our history. It added to that high distinction which inheres in any man who has held the greatest elective office in the gift of the world's nations. It made him indisputably the most distinguished private citizen in the world.

But the ex-senator mentioned had still further justification. Ever since the ex-president retired to the classic shades of Princeton his distinction has widened as a man, as a personage, one might say as a "character" in the best sense of that term when it needs quotation marks to qualify its meaning.

Affectionately Known as Grover.

Early in life Mr. Cleveland discarded his first name, Stephen. Therefore he could not be called Steve by the people of the United States. But as the one great national character of his day he became respectfully and affectionately known as Grover. Everybody was interested in knowing what Grover was doing at his Princeton home. When Grover went fishing, everybody wanted to know how many he caught and if they were cats, suckers or flounders. When Grover went duck hunting, everybody waited eagerly to learn how many he bagged.

Even the simple story of the self preservation frog was highly diverting to the great public. This frog Mr. Cleveland was using for bait. He had not had a bite for an hour. Finally he happened to glance down at his feet, and there on a rock sat little Mr. Frog, with the hook in his skin, enjoying life in the open air.

Counting, at any rate, from the time when he first became president, Mr. Cleveland never evinced any of the personal magnetism qualities which are calculated to make people think of him by his first name, much less to "Teddyize" it. Mr. Cleveland was always a dignified person. More than that, he was essentially austere and ponderous. Of course he may have been quite otherwise when he went fishing. The statement refers to his public appearances. He gave the impression of being a mountainous mass of mind, moving slowly, but surely, toward its ultimate goal, and when he reached the goal he stayed there and went into camp. He did not get there by jumps or jerks, by impulsive catching at conclusions, but by the laborious method of feeling his way and treading carefully, though perhaps not softly. President Cleveland was a big thinking machine in constant operation, but so well oiled that he made no unnecessary noise. He took his work so seriously and found it so exacting that no time was left him for the lighter side of things, even if he had had the inclination. Yet he was not always devoid of humor.

At a White House reception somehow a seedy looking tramp got in line. He was immediately behind one Dr. Lucky, who was introduced to the president. Nobody was acquainted with the tramp. Both he and Mr. Cleveland seemed embarrassed for the moment, but the president rose to the occasion. Releasing the hand of Dr. Lucky, he grasped that of the tramp and said cordially:

"And you, I suppose, are Dr. Unlucky."

Messages to Congress Penned by Himself.

It is said that all the presidents together up to Mr. Cleveland's time did not leave so many state papers in their own handwriting as did this hard worker. Mr. Cleveland insisted upon attending personally to many affairs which other presidents turned over to their secretaries. His mind worked best through his arm and his finger tips. His messages to congress he wrote with his own hand, as, in fact, all his important state papers. Thus nobody could charge him with being a dictator.

President Cleveland's severe conception of dignity was indicated by his quarrel with Colonel Henry Watterson, the famous Kentucky editor. Once the president was too busy to go to the theater when young Mrs. Cleveland expressed a desire to hear Clara Morris. Colonel Watterson happened to be at the White House. The president requested him to escort Mrs. Cleveland, which the gallant Kentuckian was happy to do. Between the acts Mrs. Cleveland suddenly announced that she desired very much to have a chat with the noted actress. The colonel arranged for her to visit Miss Morris in the latter's dressing room. Delighted with her experience, Mrs. Cleveland enthusiastically told her husband about it as soon as the colonel took her home.

The president turned to Colonel Watterson and somewhat angrily reproached him for permitting the first lady of the land to visit an actress in her dressing room instead of having the actress call at the box. He had trusted to the colonel's age and discretion, he said, to protect Mrs. Cleveland from yielding to a "schoolgirl fancy" so undignified.

Grover Cleveland was the first Democratic mayor of Buffalo and the first Democratic governor of New York since the civil war. Then he became the first and only Democrat elected to the presidency since James Buchanan, who defeated John C. Fremont, the first Republican candidate, in 1856. These facts enhance his distinction.

Helped Fanny Crosby With Her Hymns.

From his boyhood Mr. Cleveland manifested those traits of iron courage which may be termed self confidence, so characteristic of his official career. Young Grover's first job away from home was a clerkship in a school for the blind. Fanny Crosby, the noted hymn writer, herself blind, was a teacher there. Young Cleveland used to assist her by taking down her poems in handwriting. The principal of the school upbraided Miss Crosby for utilizing Grover in that way. Grover heard of it.

"Look here," he said to the blind singer, "you have a perfect right to use my services in this way. Your hymns do much good for this school. You tell the principal so next time he objects."

Miss Crosby boldly stood up for her rights after that, and the principal meekly submitted, while the young amanuensis continued the penmanship practice which enabled him later along in life to write presidential messages legibly.

Mr. Cleveland made his own way in the world. His father, a Presbyterian minister, died when Grover was sixteen. The boy after his brief experience in the school for the blind started for Cleveland, O. It is said that the name of that city was its chief attraction for him. But he visited an uncle in Buffalo on his way west and was induced to remain in that city. Grover's mother when he left home gave him a little Bible. Daniel Lamont, who was private secretary to Governor Cleveland and later a member of President Cleveland's cabinet, told a highly interesting story of this Bible.

"I first saw it," said Mr. Lamont, "on a table in Cleveland's law office in Buffalo. When Mr. Cleveland became governor the little Bible was generally to be seen on the bureau in his bedroom in Albany. Just before his inauguration as president I found the book in his rooms at the Arlington hotel, Washington, and I carried it to Chief Justice Waite, requesting him to use it when he swore the new chief magistrate into office."

About 40,000 witnesses saw Grover Cleveland press his mother's gift to his lips on that memorable occasion.

Later the little Bible lay on Mr. Cleveland's writing table in his library at Princeton. On the outside cover is inscribed in gilt letters the name "S. G. Cleveland," and on the fly leaf in his mother's handwriting are the words, "My son, Stephen Grover Cleveland, from his loving mother."

Display of Self Confidence.

The late Senator Ingalls, himself a brilliant orator, once confessed that he was stricken dumb with wonderment by Mr. Cleveland's display of self confidence at his first inauguration. With 40,000 people in hearing and 70,000,000 waiting to read the words he was about to utter, this man, altogether new to Washington and to the national arena, stood forth to deliver his inaugural address offhand. He held in the palm of his left hand a scrap of visiting card on which he had noted the merest catchwords of his address. The sight of this scrap of card caused Senator Ingalls to say:

"Suppose his memory had failed him. Such things happen to speakers skilled by a lifetime of experience, and why not to Cleveland, a novice in the art? Yet he stood there, with all the confidence of a prophet of old, and without manuscript spoke for an hour to 70,000,000 people!"

This courage, this self confidence, characterized his entire career as president. He seemed always prepared. He had loaded his gun beforehand, and when he got ready to fire he fired. During his first term he vetoed 413 bills. This unprecedented exercise of the veto power astounded congress and caused the people to sit up and take notice. No adverse criticism swerved him. Among the bills vetoed were 297 private pensions. Cleveland, who helped to support his mother during the war on a meager salary as assistant prosecutor in Buffalo, had hired a substitute when he was drafted into the army. This was brought up against him by indignant Grand Army men, but he believed that the pension bills he was vetoing were improper under the laws, and he ignored the insinuations.

Mr. Cleveland devoted his entire congressional message in 1887 to the tariff. He characterized the then existing tariff laws as "vicious, inequitable and illogical." His bold stand for a reduction of duties contributed largely to his defeat for re-election the next year, though he received a majority of the popular vote.

It was in his second term that Mr. Cleveland's policy or principle of standing pat with his own convictions split his party wide open and made him millions of political enemies. He was unalterably in favor of the gold standard. In the summer of 1893 he called a special session of congress to repeal the Sherman act requiring the government to make large purchases of silver bullion. Succeeding chapters in the monetary struggle are of such recent history that it is unnecessary to mention them.

Perhaps the one act of President Cleveland which aroused the deepest indignation in some quarters and evoked the highest commendation from other quarters was the sending of federal troops to Chicago during the great railroad strike of 1894 "to prevent obstruction of United States mails" against the protest of Governor Altgeld of Illinois, who held that his state forces were adequate to cope with the situation.

Made Him a National Hero.

His vigorous assertion of the Monroe doctrine in the Venezuelan boundary case, even to the extent of inviting war with Great Britain, swept away partisan prejudices for the time and made President Cleveland a national hero.

"A public office is a public trust," in seven words, is Mr. Cleveland's noblest literary creation.

Time softens even political asperities. It is yet too early for unbiased history to be written around the Cleveland administrations, but one may venture the prediction that, when the scroll of history is made up, on the list of the greater American presidents will be the name of Grover Cleveland, "the most distinguished private citizen in the world" for many years toward the end of the nineteenth and at the beginning of the twentieth century.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—News and Observer: The right fielder of the Raleigh ball team, Freeman, has been released ,it being stated this was because of errors and failure to do good stick work. He was here yesterday on his way to his home in Wake Forest and it is claimed that he has a bad leg which was responsible for his off playing.

—Newbern Journal: A few days ago while walking out with his dog, Mr. James E. Warren, of James City, the dog ran a partridge off her nest and killed her. In the nest he found 16 eggs which he took home and set a hen on them with the result that 11 partridges were hatched and are following their so-called mother as filial children should.

—Rocky Mount Record: With train 89 two hours late today the Atlantic Coast Line put what might be termed the old Selma connection train back into commission for the purpose of carrying the convention delegates through on time Over 50 delegates from this city and Eastern Carolina left by this train Tuesday for Charlotte.

—Richmond, Va., June 23.—Because of the decision of the State Corporation Commission, requiring express companies to transport liquors from wet communities into towns from which such shipments are excluded by local laws, a movement has been formally launched to bring the question of State wide prohibition directly before the people of Virginia. The next session of the Legislature will be asked to arrange for a general election to ascertain the will of the people on this subject.

—News and Observer: "The only two counties in North Carolina in which Mr. Kitchin and Mr. Craig had a joint debate were Anson and Mecklenburg," said Mr. Walter Clark, Jr., as he read a telegram from Mr. D. H. Smith, the Horne manager for Mecklenburg county, which said: 'Horne leads in Mecklenburg. Hard fight. More news later.' "Judging by the fact that Mr. Horne led in Anson and Mecklenburg—(the only two counties that heard the other candidates in joint debate)—it would seem to indicate that wherever Craig and Kitchin spoke together they made votes for Mr. Horne. If they had spoken in every county in the State, Horne would now have enough votes to nominate him on the first ballot."

—Charlotte Observer: Add a fourth name to the honor roll of valiant and youthful veterans of the Democratic State convention of fifty years ago who are in Charlotte to attend that of 1908. Dr. J. H. Williamson, of Richmond county, is the gentleman in question. From 1858 to 1908 is quite a far stretch across the years, but it has not sufficed to dim the lustre of the eye nor age the youthful spirit of this veteran in politics. For years and years he has been a prosperous and prominent farmer, identified with the best in the life of his county. He is 80 years of age, but is as youthful in spirit as ever in his life. The fact had been overlooked that there was another delegate of 1858 within the ranks of this year's body.

—Durham, June 23.—Warrant has been issued for the arrest of a young man by the name of McVullough Morris, who is said to be the son of a banker at Lake City, S. C., although that is not certain. The warrant charges him with forging a check that was cashed by a clothing firm in this city. The check was for but $7.50, but it is said that this is not his first experience in this business and the warrant was issued for his arrest. Young Morris came here some time ago and for several weeks has sported about the city, putting on many togs and fancy clothing. He presented to the clothing firm a check purporting to have been signed by H. B. Morris, a banker, of Lake City, who is the father of the young man. Other checks had been presented and paid here and this one was cashed, but when it was put in for collection it was turned down, it being stated that his father would not longer wink at the way in which his son was acting. When the officer was given the warrant today he hastened to the boarding place of the young man and was there told that he had left last night, presumably to leave the city, and that he was accompanied by his father, who came here for him.

—Washington Herald: "There is a way to beat the storage commission merchant and the old hen herself; to have fresh eggs all the time in fact," said Marshay Raymond, a lawyer of Paducah, Ky. "This method may be as old as the Chinese—at least I learned it in China when I made a trip through the East more than a year ago. I happened to run into the American Consul General at Shanghai while over there, and when I left he presented me with what he said were eggs. Although they didn't look like eggs at all—looked, indeed, more like elongated mud pies with a stone stuffed in them—I faithfully brought them home, and at last opened one. Sure enough, there was an egg inside, and when it was broken it proved to be entirely fresh, although it may have been in that mud for a year or more. Well, with that knowledge of how the Chinamen keep eggs fresh I salted a whole barrel of them to see how they would do under American mud. I bought them at the time of year when they were cheap, not caring much whether they kept or not, but willing to try the experiment. I buried them under more than a foot and a half of earth and left them for several months. When winter came along and eggs went up to some enormous figure I just dug down into the earth and pulled out that barrel. Opened to the light the eggs looked as if they had just been laid. They tasted, too, as if they had never been put away in the earth for many weeks."

One of the great growers of seed potatoes in Maine who has made a life study of Irish potatoes, has demonstrated beyond question that it is impossible to apply Paris Green to potato vines in any quantity without weakening the vitality of the tuber. THE COTTON MARKET.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, June 24.—The cotton market was not active today but prices advanced and closed steady at a net advance of 8 to 19 points. Sales were estimated at 125,000 bales.

The market opened firm at an advance of 6 to 17 points and while at first there was some irregularity arising from continued nervousness over yesterday's sensational break in the old crop movement, the tendency was upward owing to better cables than due, and strength in the English spot market which was not in line with yesterday's rumors of easier offerings from the south. After selling to a net advance of about 10 to 25 points, with July selling 1-2c above yesterday's low level on a demand from spot interests and covering of Wall street shorts the market became very quiet and there were slight recession during the afternoon under realizing. The close, however, was at practically the best of the new crop positions. The course of the day's market seemed to create quite a general impression that yesterday's break in the old crop months was due to liquidation by traders in preparations for notices on Friday rather than to any change in spot conditions. Private spot news were somewhat neglecting, but bullish in the main and southern spot markets reporting early were 1-8c lower to 1-16c higher, generally unchanged. Weather reports were considered favorable and private crop accounts reaching the trade are of a generally bearish character although some complaints are still coming in from sections of the western belt, owing to recent excessive moisture.

Receipts at the ports today were 9,937 bales against 9,596 last week, and 3,551 last year. For the week 50,000 bales against 48,723 last week and 27,984 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 3,076 bales against 1,346 last year and at Houston 1,763 bales against 627 last year.

Spot cotton closed quiet; middling uplands 11.80; middling gulf 12.05; sales 29 bales.

DRY GOODS MARKET.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, June 24.—The cotton goods market ruled quiet for the day. Jobbers clearance sales are under way and business during the day was very satisfactory. Silk piece goods and ribbons have been advanced as a consequence of a radical rise in the price of raw silk. The hosiery and underwear trade is showing definite signs of slow recovery.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

(By Wire to the Morning Star)

New York, June 24.—The complexion of affairs in the stock market today took on a colorless hue and the trading sank almost to the point of idleness. A large proportion of the day's scanty total of sharp transfers were sold in the first hour of the session. This little spurt of activity ensued. This extreme dullness is not unseasonable. There was further selling of Chesapeake & Ohio today. The small movement of soft coal is regarded as an important index of the slackness of the manufacturing movements generally. The reported rupture of wage negotiations between the Republic Iron & Steel Company and its workmen made an unfavorable impression as adding to the possibilities of a general wage disturbance in that trade. A favorable influence was the belief in the success of the efforts to rehabilitate the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company. Yesterday's violent break in the cotton market was more accurately understood as due to technical speculative conditions, and the recovery in that market today was not of any effect on stocks. The extreme ease of call money is attributed to some temporary accumulations in preparation for the July settlements.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales par value $1,254,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call. Total sales today 206,400 shares.

SUDDEN DEATH OF CLEVELAND

This Announcement Sends a Shock Throughout The Whole Country.

FEW PERSONS PRESENT

When the End Came So Unexpectedly. Doctors Hastily Summoned—Heart Disease the Immediate Cause of His Death.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Princeton, N. J., June 24.—Grover Cleveland, twice President of the United States, died at 8:40 o'clock this morning at his home "Westland" in this quiet college town where he had lived since his retirement as the Nation's Chief Executive, almost twelve years ago.

When death came, which was sudden, there were in the death chamber on the second floor of the Cleveland residence, Mrs. Cleveland; Dr. Joseph D. Bryant, of New York, Mr. Cleveland's family physician and personal friend; Dr. George R. Lockwood, also of New York, and Dr. John M. Carnahan, of Princeton.

An official statement given out and signed by the three physicians gave heart trouble superinduced by stomach and kidney ailments of long standing as the cause of death. While Mr. Cleveland had been in poor health for the last two years and had lost 100 pounds in weight, his death came unexpectedly. Some three weeks ago he was brought home from Lakewood, where his condition for a time was such that the hotel at which he was staying was kept open after its regular season because he was too ill to be moved; but when Mr. Cleveland was brought back to Princeton he showed signs of improvement and gained five pounds in weight.

Although confined to his room continuously after his return to Princeton it was not until yesterday that Mr. Cleveland's condition aroused uneasiness on the part of Mrs. Cleveland. Undoubtedly affected by heat, Mr. Cleveland showed signs of failure and Mrs. Cleveland telephoned to Dr. Bryant, who arrived here from New York at 4:24 o'clock P. M. Dr. Lockwood followed Dr. Bryant from New York and when they reached here Dr. Carnahan, Mr. Cleveland's local physician was also called in.

During the evening Mr. Cleveland seemed to rally and Mrs. Cleveland felt assured that it was merely another of the many attacks Mr. Cleveland had suffered.

Mr. Cleveland became worse during the night and Mrs. Cleveland was called to the bedside of her husband. The distinguished patient sank into unconsciousness from which he recovered at times only to suffer a relapse. This continued throughout the night and early morning. The last time he became unconscious was about two hours before he died. Death was peaceful. Just before he died Mr. Cleveland sought to say something, but his words were inaudible.

The text of the official statement given out after Mr. Cleveland's death was as follows:

"Mr. Cleveland for many years had suffered from repeated attacks of gastric intestinal origin. Also he had a long standing organic disease of the heart and kidneys. Heart failure complicated with pulmonary thrombosis and oedema were the immediate cause of his death."

Some two or three hours later, Dr. Bryant in answer to a question said that "the heart failure which occasioned death was induced within 24 hours of the end and death was finally due to that," thus corroborating the unofficial information that Mr. Cleveland began to grow worse yesterday afternoon.

The news of Mr. Cleveland's death came as a sudden shock to the people of Princeton as it did to the people of the rest of the world. As the news spread about, the University flags were placed at half mast and everybody expressed regrets and extolled Mr. Cleveland's virtues.

Many of the intimate friends of the family and many others called at the Cleveland home. Few were able to see Mrs. Cleveland. The visitors, newspaper men, photographers and others became so numerous that the police authorities placed a policeman on guard at the Cleveland home and no one but intimate friends and those in charge of the funeral arrangements were permitted to approach the house.

It was not until late in the day that messages of condolences began to come in from all parts of the world to Mrs. Cleveland. One of the first was from President Roosevelt, who will attend the funeral which will be held on Friday afternoon, and which in deference to Mrs. Cleveland's wishes, will be as private as possible.

Mr. Cleveland's body will be buried in Princeton cemetery in the family plot where lies the remains of Ruth, the eldest of the Cleveland children, whose death was a sad blow to her father.

Mrs. Cleveland denied herself to all but a few callers. Professor Andrew F. West, of Princeton University, and Bayard Stockton, a Princeton lawyer and a member of the famous Stockton family, were at the house all day and were in charge of all arrangements.

Among the callers was Colonel Frederick Gilkyson, Assistant Adjutant General of the National Guard of New Jersey, who came as the personal representative of Governor Fort tendering the service of all or any part of the guard of the State as an escort for the funeral. The tender was declined because of Mrs. Cleveland's preference for a quiet funeral.

So unexpectedly did Mr. Cleveland's death occur that not one of his four children were at home. The children are at the Cleveland summer home at Tamworth, N. H., under the care of Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Cleveland's mother. Word was sent to them of their father's death and they will start at once for Princeton. The children are Esther, aged 14; Marion, aged 12; Richard, aged 10, and Francis Grover, aged 5.

Ever since Mr. Cleveland's arrival in Princeton eleven years ago he has been a conspicuous figure in Princeton. Although his official connection with Princeton was his lectureship, known as the Stagord Little Lectureship, and his membership in the board of trustees, he was regarded as a strong friend of the institution.

As a member of the board of trustees his counsel and astuteness were invaluable. The last trustees' meeting which he attended was October 17. He walked from a carriage to the trustees' room leaning on a heavy cane. This was an important meeting of the board, and Mr. Cleveland took a prominent part in the discussion concerning certain proposed changes in the University social system.

Mr. Cleveland was heartily interested in the welfare of the University and a story is told that he practically induced Andrew Carnegie to present Carnegie Lake to Princeton. Grover Cleveland was well liked among the students and faculty.

The telegrams of condolence came in by the hundred from all parts of the United States and other countries during the day and they continued to pour in far into the night. Besides President Roosevelt's telegram, messages of condolence came from government officials, governors, legislators, and citizens in various walks of life. Very few of them, however, were read by Mrs. Cleveland, who decided not to attempt to learn of their contents until she has recovered from the shock caused by her husband's death.

LIKE A SKIN GAME.

A Syndicate's Efforts to Do the Government as to Exposition.
(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Norfolk, Va., June 24.—A speculative syndicate has acquired most of the State buildings on the water front of the eastern half of the Jamestown grounds, which it is proposed to sell to the government for naval purposes and threatens to wreck the buildings, thus lessening the value of the property, unless it can secure from the exposition receivers the building sites at a greatly reduced price over the optional price of 25 cents per square foot which the States hold by extension until November, 1908. A price of five or ten cents per square foot is suggested.

The plan to have the receivers acquire the buildings so there would be no others to deal with when the Government desired to buy failed, it is said today, because the syndicate held previous options. The syndicate has secured the Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts, Michigan, North Carolina, Connecticut and Rhode Island buildings and expects to get the Illinois. The only other building on the east side of the grounds are New Hampshire, Delaware and Vermont, which have been secured by other private parties, and New Jersey, which that State itself will wreck and carry back to be re-built.

KILLED IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Several Officials and Others Killed by Negros Hill Men.
(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Manila, June 24.—A telegram received here today from the Island of Negros tells of the murder of H. D. Everett, a government forester, T. R. Wakely, a school teacher, and four Filipinos by hill tribesmen. The party had started across the Island of Negros which is one of the least civilized of the extreme southern group of islands and had been missing for six weeks. No details of the murders have been received here.

Washington, June 24.—H. D. Everett, a native of New York, whose murder on the island of Negros by hill tribesmen, is reported from Manila, was transferred to the Philippine Forestry service from the Forestry Bureau here in August, 1905. T. R. Wakely, a graduate of the University of Chicago, also killed, was 27 years old and went from Chicago to teach school in the Philippines a year ago. The Negros people have given the authorities the least trouble of any people in the Archipelago.

FIRST BALE OF COTTON.

Sold in New York and Rushed to Liverpool.
(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, June 24.—The first bale of cotton of the new crop was sold at auction at the New York Cotton Exchange today. It was fully strict good middling in grade and brought 35 cents per pound. This bale arrived at Houston, Texas, on the morning of June 20th and was sold at auction there at 54 cents per pound. It was immediately expressed to this city and, following the sale this morning, was hurried on board the Mauritania sailing at noon for Liverpool, where it will again be sold at auction according to the usual custom. This is said to be a record for rapid handling of the first bale which has traveled from Houston to New York and will probably be sold in Liverpool within a period of ten days.

PROCLAMATION BY PRESIDENT

Announcing to The Country The Death of Ex-President Cleveland.

ALL FLAGS AT HALF MAST

On Government Buildings—War and Navy Departments to Order Proper Observances—Roosevelt to Attend the Funeral.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Washington, June 24.—Unofficial notification of the death of former President Cleveland was flashed immediately to Oyster Bay for the information of President Roosevelt. The White House received its first news of the death from the Associated Press.

Secretary Corfelyou, who, as the senior cabinet officer in Washington at present, is now acting head of the administration. The President issued a proclamation announcing the death of ex-President Cleveland and paying a high tribute to the deceased.

Secretary Cortelyou, who served as confidential stenographer to President Cleveland, expressed himself as greatly shocked.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 24.—News of the death of ex-President Grover Cleveland was communicated to President Roosevelt at his summer home here today and caused radical changes in the President's plans. Mr. Roosevelt was visibly deeply shocked at the tidings and immediately telegraphed to Mrs. Cleveland at Princeton, N. J., tendering his sympathy and that of Mrs. Roosevelt and asking to be notified at Mrs. Cleveland's earliest convenience of the time of the late President's funeral. Afterward announcement was made that President and Mrs. Roosevelt would attend the funeral services at Princeton Friday.

Mr. Roosevelt made it known immediately upon receipt of the news of Mr. Cleveland's death that he would abandon his proposed trip to New London, Conn., to witness the Harvard-Yale boat races on which he was to have started today.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by Secretary Loeb, will leave Oyster Bay on a special train on Friday for Princeton to attend the funeral.

Charlotte, N. C., June 24.—When The Associated Press announced to the Democratic State Convention in session here today the death of former President, Grover Cleveland, all business was immediately suspended and former Governor Thomas J. Jarvis, temporary chairman of the convention, offered the following resolution which was adopted, the delegates rising in a body with bowed heads:

"Resolved, That the Democratic party of North Carolina, in convention assembled, has heard with profound and sincere regret of the death of Grover Cleveland, three times the nominee of this party and twice the Democratic President of the United States.

"That we recognize in Grover Cleveland one of the greatest statesmen who has figured in public life since the war and in his death we feel that the South has lost one who showed himself a friend to it and one who did more to bring about a reunited country than any other public official in history.

"That we tender our sympathy to the family of President Cleveland and direct that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Mrs. Cleveland and in respect to President Cleveland's memory, that this convention do adjourn until 4:30 o'clock this afternoon."

In pursuance of the resolution the convention suspended business immediately.

FINE TAGET RECORD

Nineteenth Company Coast Artillery, at Fort Caswell Was Perfect.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Washington, June 24.—One hundred per cent. target records recently have been made by three-inch rifles in the Coast Artillery Corps. The 19th Company at Battery McDonough, with three inch rifles, at Fort Caswell, N. C., on May 28, made ten hits out of ten shots fired at a material target ten feet high by twenty-four feet long, moving five miles an hour at a mean range of sixteen hundred yards. The series of ten shot was fired in 38 seconds. This is the first report received by General Murray, chief of the artillery, showing 100 per cent. for a three-inch battery.

A second performance of this kind took place at Battery Lord, Fort Moultree, S. C., when the 16th Company, of the Coast Artillery Corps, on June 1st, made ten hits out of ten shots fired at a target moving at the rate of nine miles an hour at a mean range of 1,230 yards, the shots being fired in 36 seconds.

Specials to the Pioneer Press from Grand Forks, N. D., say that returns received at midnight, indicate that United States Senator Hansbrough has been defeated in the Republican primaries in North Dakota, and that the contest between C. B. Little and T. F. Marshall for the Senatorship will be close.

Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, in an interview has declared himself not a candidate for the Vice Presidential nomination ,but said his name would be presented to the national convention for the Presidential nomination.

Send "An Instructed Delegate" to this Store

TO THE WIFE OF "THE MAN:—

Send him here, "instructed" to buy one of our $16.50 Suits—and come along with him, if you can, to see that he carries out your "instruction."

The average man, unless he were a little bit "hen-pecked" in such matters, would keep doing "other things first" until his wife would feel a wee-bit ashamed to go out with him.

"Hen-peck" YOUR husband, dear madam, just enough to see that he gets a new suit before he begins to NEED IT TOO VISIBLY!
